Rock and Roll

'Itchy Twitchy' Curb Sought

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Congress was urged yesterday to do its bit to curb the spread of rock and roll music.

Rep. Torbert H. MacDonald charged that a new post office policy is subsidizing "the purveyors of this musical nonsense."

Unless the post office department has the "good sense" to change the policy, he said, congress should write a law revising it.

MacDonald attacked a ruling last Aug. 1 which made all phonograph records eligible for lower postal rates as fourth-class mail.

This was possible under a law passed by congress last year. MacDonald said, however, the law was intended to cover educational material and not all types of music.

A post office department spokesman said the department had "no alternative" because "we're merely carrying out the law as set by congress."

The congressman levelled his attack in a speech prepared for delivery to the house today. Advance copies were made public last night.

He said he's always been told that performers such as Elvis Presley and Jerry Lee Lewis have "an adverse effect" on education of teenagers.

"Putting such immortal rock and roll classics as 'Itchy Twitchy Feeling,' 'Honey Comb,' 'Stagger Lee,' and 'Splish Splash' in the same category as the recordings of Bach, Brahms and Beethoven, et al, is a horrible perversion of the intent of congress," he said.

MacDonald, a 41-year-old father of four, said a glance at the titles of popular records makes it obvious they serve no educational purpose.

Dean Named For Faculty Of Medicine

VANCOUVER (CP) — Dr. John F. McCreary was named as dean of the UBC medical faculty.

A former Toronto pediatrician, Dr. McCreary will resign as head of the UBC department of pediatrics but will continue as professor in that department.

He succeeds Dr. John Patterson, who resigned last September to become dean of Medicine at Vanderbilt University in Nashville, Tenn.

College Students Confine Morality To 'Sex, Cheating'

CHICAGO (UPI)—To most college students morality is restricted to "sex, liquor and cheating in exams," an eastern college official said yesterday.

Edward D. Eddy, Jr., vice-president of the University of New Hampshire, recently completed a study of student values which, he said, revealed a narrow view of morality held by most of the nation's college students.

"To the thinking man, morality should be more encompassing, should include integrity, justice, self-discipline and altruism," Eddy said.

Eddy addressed 1,100 college administrators who are attending a three-day higher education conference.

He said the blame for the student outlook can be traced to the apparent refusal of teachers to take a stand on moral and intellectual problems.

Eddy said one student told him:

"We're called the silent generation, but you can't really blame us. We've studied under those who make a fetish of silence."
